NAVIGATING THE LIBRARY

FUSEHILL STREET CAMPUS

Where to ask questions.

Where to go to complete online classes or meetings.

Where to go to complete group work.

How to access any help you need.

How to find all the resources you may need.

Welcome to Fusehill Street Campus! Let's go and visit the library.

This is the main entrance to Skiddaw building.

You will see the sign, the library is on the second floor.

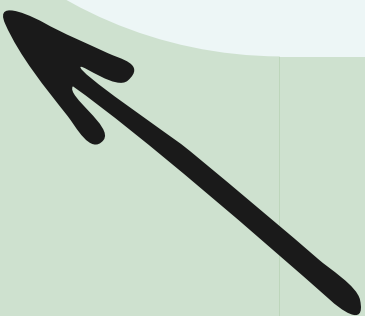

When you walk into the Skiddaw building, this is what you will see on the ground floor. Lifts and stairs are located to the right.

To get to the library you need to go up two flights of stairs, a lift is available.

This is the entrance to the library.

Just inside the library are the library kiosks and the printer, along with lockers with laptops for you to borrow

Turn right and you can find a group study area.

Head past the study area and you will find the law collection and the print journals. There is another study area and the teaching practice collection at this end of the library.

This is the collection of print journals.

This is study room A, which can be booked in advance.

The library desk is in the middle of the library, near to comfy seating, perfect for relaxing. You can collect any books that you have requested from the nearby reservation shelf, and borrow them using the self service kiosks.

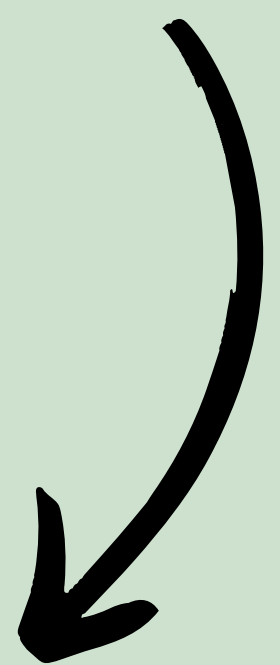

This is the reservation shelf.

These are the self service machines.

You will also find the main lending collection in this area of the library.

Past the library desk is another bookable group study room.

And a silent study room.

Walk further down through the main lending collection, where there are some more private pods to work in, and also the silent study area and the toilets.
